The Tulum's International Airport 'welcome cocktail' becomes reality

TQO cocktail: a drink that was born in Tulum to celebrate your arrival at the the mayan jungle Airport.

Hotels, restaurants and bars in Tulum debut original cocktails to celebrate your arrival from the jungle airport. The cocktails and mocktails (non-alcoholic drink) have been created in collaboration with professional mixologists and bartenders using local, seasonal ingredients, preferably supporting local producers. Among global travel habits and trends, airplane passengers say that the first vacation photo they take is at the airport, hotel or restaurant upon arrival with their respective welcome drink or cocktail. The TQO cocktails alluding to the identification code of the Tulum International Airport will now be available for the month of May in each Tulum establishment. The General Directorate of Tourism and Economy of the Tulum City Council reminds passengers to always drink responsibly when traveling to the Mayan Caribbean of Mexico. Celebrate the official start of your vacation and order your TQO cocktail or mocktail now! Share it and make it your favorite.
